Working with Steiner's Seven School Sketches for Painters

A masterclass painting studio with Fiona Campbell

This series of training motifs were given to the schools as part of a new impulse for understanding both Human and Nature, to help the students to explore objective spiritual laws.

Join artist and researcher Fiona Campbell for an online masterclass over 7 sessions as she works with Steiner's Seven School or Friedwart) Sketches, part of the extensive portfolio of motifs that form the foundations of Steiner's vision for a renewal of the spirit in the visual arts.

What are the Training Sketches?

Steiner gave a series of 9 and 7 motifs to the artists and teachers as a foundation for the renewal of the art of painting. They were called training sketches, but sometimes people wonder what it is they are training. They are a training for the soul, opening the way to true moral and spiritual experiences of the cosmos. They can a new awareness of the inner moods and processes of nature and human life.
